WARRING IRELAND IN ARMED REBELLION

Hundreds are Killed in Civil Warfare This Year and Many Towns Sacked.

The Toll in Ireland

"One hundred and two British policemen were murdered in the execution of their duty in Ireland, presumably by Sinn Fein, from Jan. 1, 1919, to Sept. 28," The Irish office.

Fifty Irish civilians were killed by British soldiers or policemen between Jan. 1, 1919 and Sept. 28, of whom 33 were murdered since June 20, when the police and military in Ireland were informed by a government order that they would not be held responsible for killings.—Arthur O'Brien, Sinn Fein ambassador in London.

BY WILLIAM MALLABAR (STAFF CORRESPONDENT I. N. SERVICE). LONDON, Sept. 30.—Measured by the casualty lists, the number of towns sacked and burned and the violent battles in which property was destroyed on a great scale, Ireland has passed into a state of armed rebellion, which may result in the devastation of the whole country unless peace is soon restored.

The International News Service today sought and secured from both the British government and representatives of the Sinn Fein lists of figures to show the people of America in definite form how far the devastation of life and property has proceeded in Ireland. These figures are for the period of time between Jan. 1 and Sept. 28.

The Irish office—that branch of the British government which deals with the administration of Irish affairs, gave the following state of affairs: Policemen killed, presumably by Sinn Fein, since January 1, 1919, 102. These men were murdered during the execution of their duty. The seriously wounded totaled 170.

Attacks on police barracks, including those we had deserted because of their isolated location, numbered 473. Court houses burned aggregated 65. Four hundred and eighty-five vacated barracks were destroyed. The various attacks and waves of incendiarism caused damage running into millions of dollars. Sinn Fein raids to seize arms numbered at least 230 and at least 20 civilians were killed.

There were 399 raids against vehicles carrying mails and postoffice. Raids against coast guard stations, mostly during the past three months, numbered 40. The Sinn Fein have enrolled an army of not less than 100,000 men. They have been terrorizing the country by the use of a fair jury trial because any man joining in a verdict which is opposed to Sinn Fein theories and interests is liable to assassination.

Arthur O'Brien, so-called "Sinn Fein ambassador" in London, replied to the government statement as follows: "Since the first of January fifty civilians were killed in Ireland by the police or soldiers. Thirty-three of them were murdered since June 20 when the police and troops were informed by government order that they would not be held responsible for killings.

"Over 100 civilians were wounded in military raids. Eighty-nine towns have been sacked, sacked or destroyed by police or military forces. The constabulary raided the residences of suspected Sinn Fein and various headquarters, but there were so many of these raids, it is impossible to estimate them. It is impossible to estimate the arrests, too many of them. But for example, in the week ending Sept. 17, there were 47 arrests.

"The British government connives at the looting of property by armed forces. It has only the power and authority conferred by the presence of an army of invasion and this will be lost eventually."

The Irish office estimated that there are 10,000 members of the Royal Irish Constabulary in Ireland. This includes the so-called "black and tan" policemen, so designated because of the color of their uniforms. In addition there is an auxiliary division, composed exclusively of "black and tan." The war office refuses to reveal this exact number of troops.

GARY MAN SUES FOR COMMISSION

CROWN POINT, IND., Sept. 30.—The case of J. Kovachewich vs. Julia Oppensack, both parties being from Gary was tried here yesterday. It is asserted that Kovachewich was employed by Mrs. Oppensack to dispose of her property at 1235 Washington st., contracting with her that he was to receive all above $6,000 if he found a purchaser, which he did in the person of George Kokos, who agreed to buy the property for $6,500. When Kovachewich had made all the arrangements for the sale he refused to sell. He feels that the commission of $500 is due him, hence the law suit. Attorneys Sweeney and Welshmer are the legal talent in the case.

Did You Hear That

SIGN in a State street window says: "Two panes with this suit." Does it mean a pair or a pair of pairs?

GEORGE and Joe Lisenfelt are in Wisconsin this week loading potatoes, which were raised this season on their farm.

HAMMOND now awaits its long deferred building boom with the price of lumber and other commodities dropping from 25 to 30 per cent.

BUSINESS men received mail today from Indianapolis and way points dated September 12, showing how excellent Mr. Bartleson's mail service is.

W. H. TAFT, former president of the U. S., was through the Calumet region last Friday over the Grand Trunk and none were the wiser.

H. J. GESCHIEDLER, cashier of the Hammond Trust & Savings Bank, is among those listed at the police station as violators of the parking ordinance.

JUDGE FRED BARNETT, of Hammond, candidate for congress on the democratic ticket, is stumping the district and having some very encouraging meetings.

SOMEBODY sends us in an ad from the Louisville Courier-Journal headed: "Good Things To Eat," and the first item under the head is, "Baby buggy—nice, cheap, call East 1074-J."

A Hammond man has another way of expressing it truthfully when he says that what this country needs is fewer automobile drivers and more wheelbarrow pushers.

PETE DAVIS has rented the building occupied by Emmerting formerly, and will open up an up-to-date soft drink parlor there as soon as it can be remodeled and refitted.

HOW many old-timers remember when Holmes street was bordered with wood, and what this country needs is fewer automobile drivers and more wheelbarrow pushers.

DOUG FAIRBANKS seems to have his old popularity in spite of his drives and air, judging from the crowds which have been waiting at the door of the Bing each evening this week.

SOMEBODY stole the motorcar from Harry Diamond's auto last night in front of his place of business and Harry is mighty grateful they didn't steal his pet Butch as well.

MARSHAL ECKSTEIN, of Lansing, has looked Hammond police to be on the lookout for two lads named Miller and Doleck, who have been missing from their homes since Saturday.

JACK CRAWFORD, of THE TIMES advertising force, is enjoying a two weeks vacation somewhere. When last heard from he and Mrs. Crawford were heading southwest, presumably towards Mexico.

JACK LEECH received a letter today from the Harley-Davidson factory stating that four of the fastest racing motorcycles had been shipped to participate in the races Sunday at the Porter Speed way.

CHARLEY BURNING, court house janitor, was right about the weather man yesterday. He fired up the heating plant early and the building was one of the few comfortable places in the city.

CAR owners who leave their machines at the curb in front of their homes are also being annoyed by finding white tags which have been attached to them by the police.

IT is reported that the Erie coal storage warehouses on the East Side are to be torn down and removed, the insurance having expired. All of which is good news for the East Side, which has long considered them an eyesore.

PETE KUNTZ, 1080 Melville ave., East Chicago, is the right sort. Yesterday his truck struck a lad who was webbing along on a bicycle near the Wagner Malleable Iron plant. Pete took him and his bike home and then came to the police station and reported the accident. The boy was not hurt seriously.

WITH a Hammond-Griffith bus added to the fleet of Hammond-Chicago Heights buses traffic between the city and the south town is reaching vast proportions. Hundreds of people from the courts, judiciums are shopping in Hammond who never saw the town before the bus lines. Some street car company is losing money, but the merchant should worry as long as the buses are loaded.

ACCORDING to the word of some of the old-timers, who profess the power of reading the weather signs, the first killing frost will not come soon enough to damage the corn crop. Some of this weather prophecy is based on the cockleburrs. It is said that if the cockleburrs are advanced at this time of year there is likelihood of an early frost. One weather prophet says that the cockleburrs are not far advanced this year. Have you a little cockleburrr in your back yard?

OLD TIMER ELMER E. RAGON, in speaking of the old Hammond Independent says: "M. M. Towle and George A. A. Mason first ran the Hammond Independent, then Charley Cleveland and I ran it and we sold it to S. E. Swaim and when Charley and I had it it had considerably more than a hundred subscribers. We had something like 400 daily at that time and when Charley and I had it it made more money than it ever made before or after our management and when we sold out we made quite a nice little profit."

HERE'S PRIZE FISH STORY OF SEASON

And John W. Millikan Merely Wins the Asbestos Silk Hat for the Yarn

When J. W. Millikan, proprietor of the sporting goods store on State street, Hammond, started on his outing at his summer cottage on the Kankakee near Duane's bridge, it was confidently predicted that he would bring back the season's prize fish story. He did.

The only disappointing feature for him was that he did not make the capture himself.

He was in the cottage and his attention was attracted to the river by the excited cries of two girls and a woman who were strangers to him. One of the girls was in the river. Before he reached the scene the girl emerged triumphantly from the water holding a joint of stove pipe with an elbow attached. From one end of the pipe trailed about six inches of the tail of a huge fish. His nose was visible at the outlet of the elbow.

The woman and her daughters had been fishing along the river and were headed for home when one of the girls noticed the fish tail flapping violently from the stove pipe which was lying in shallow water at the edge of the river. She started after it but as her feet struck the damp clay bank at the water's edge she slipped and sat down, landing on the pipe. The fish gave up and it was easy to land him.

The fish, one of the largest catfish taken from the river in a long while, weighed better than twelve pounds and was nearly thirty-four inches long. Rubbish and trash had been thrown into the water in front of the cottage and garbage was also dumped there. It is thought that the fish had come up for his lunch and in prowling around had tried to swim through the stove pipe. One of his horns caught as he was negotiating the turn in the elbow.

U. S. Senator Medill McCormack will speak upon the league of nations. The senator intends to present the subject in his forceful manner, taking up each point in its relative importance.

Mrs. Winfield K. Smith, one of our foremost national speakers, who rendered overseas service, will devote a few moments giving some interesting facts. All citizens for county offices will be in attendance.

The Hammond republican headquarters under the direction of Mr. Clyde Cleveland, city chairman, extends a hearty invitation to all citizens. Come and meet the candidates.

Bob Strauss will be present to render service on registration.

WILL NOT BE ABLE TO GO TO WHITING

S. G. Metchikarov, a boilermaker, residing in Gary was supposed to accept a new position at the Standard Oil Company's plant at Whiting this morning, but instead lies near death at the Mercy hospital suffering from a fractured skull.

From the effects of drinking a large quantity of "white mule," he walked in front of a one man street car number 705 between Fourth and Fifth avenue on Broadway last night and was severely injured. An X-ray will be taken of his head today to determine the extent of his injuries.

Several pedestrians saw Metchikarov stagger out of the alley and start across the street. The motorman operating the car rang his bell and made every effort to stop in time to avoid hitting the man. According to an application card found on his person, Metchikarov applied for a position at the Standard Oil Company at Whiting on the 24th of this month and was accepted.

3 MILLION DOLLAR FIRE IN GALVESTON

(INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE). GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 30.—A fire which started in the plant of the Freeport Sulphur Co. early this morning was brought under control only after it had caused damage and loss of $3,000,000 to water front property.

The Italian steamship Etna suffered the loss of her entire cargo of wheat and streams of water were still being poured into her hatches by fire boats.

(INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE). HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 30.—Fire, undetermined origin early today was raging along almost the entire waterfront of Galveston.

A message from Galveston to the Southern Pacific train dispatcher here at 5:22 this morning, said in part:

"Galveston wharf, water front and vicinity for eight blocks completely destroyed. Pier 15, cotton concentration shed, cottonseed and cake, warehouse with several bales of cotton and one foreign boat burned."

Pier 25 is called the sulphur pier. The plant of the Freeport Sulphur Co., the cotton concentration company's shed at the rear of Pier 25, 40 men and women and employees of the company were injured early this morning. The fire broke out a few minutes before 2 o'clock. Whipped by a strong north wind, the fire at that time was burning briskly and threatened other property on Pier 25. Sparks were flying back as far as the residence section and grave danger threatened of a general conflagration in the west end.

Employees were instructed to report next Monday when it will be definitely known whether the plant is to operate on a three day week basis or remain closed until conditions improve.

In normal times 14,000 persons are employed at the Overland plant, but the number has been gradually reduced. A falling off in the demand for automobiles caused the shut down.

WILL GIVE AWAY THREE FORD AUTOS

A race meet, open to stock cars only, has been planned by Hammond automobile dealers to be held Sunday, Oct. 10, at the Roby Speedway.

It has been announced that last Sunday closed the season at the Roby course but since then Hammond dealers have been talking it over and have decided that the people should be given an opportunity to see the different makes of machines performing on the track. However, only one race will be limited to dealers only and anyone may enter stock cars in the other events.

There will be four races on the card. Three will be ten-mile events and one will be twenty-five miles. Extensive improvements have been made upon the track between now and October 10. Both of the turns will be banked more and will be given a surface of cement and cinders, eliminating the bumps which have been kicked up in the last races.

Of special interest to the public will be the announcement that the promoters are going to give away three Ford automobiles at the day. Coupons will be given with the entrance tickets and a drawing will be held to determine the winners of the free divers.

Bob Strauss will be present to render service on registration.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Clothing, pianos and plumbing prices are the latest commodities to join in the downward movement of prices here.

BATCHELOR GETS LIFE

(SPECIAL TO THE TIMES). VALPARAISO, IND., Sept. 30.—After spending the night in balloting, the jury in the trial of Tom Batchelor, of Gary, for the murder of Herman Vecker, cashier of the Tolleston bank, brought in a verdict of guilty and recommended life imprisonment.

This is the first life sentence which has been dealt out in Porter county in the memory of the oldest citizens. Records show that there has not been a death sentence since 1837. The state considers it a great victory.

In their closing arguments, attorneys for both sides devoted most of their time to the character of the sentence. The state held firmly for the death penalty while the defense argued against it. W. J. McAleer and W. O. Thomas dealt telling blows for the prosecution.

It was understood the first ballot was 7 for life imprisonment and 3 for death. Later this changed to 5 for imprisonment and 3 for death. Ballot after ballot was then taken without change until the final switch was made. There was never any doubt as to Batchelor's guilt. The jury went out at 8 o'clock last night and brought in the verdict at 12:30 this morning.

Batchelor's mother caused a scene when the verdict was read. She, with her son's wife and two small children, and the mother of Red Parker had remained in the court room all night.

RED LEADER CRITICIZES PRES. WILSON

Dominant Power In Soviet Government Gives Views By Wireless.

(Copyright, 1920, by the I. N. S.) MOSCOW (By Wireless to Berlin). Sept. 29, (Delayed).—The Soviet government of Russia is turning its attention to the Pacific, in which sphere, according to War Minister Leon Trotsky, a tremendous antagonism is growing up.

Trotsky's reference to a "tremendous antagonism" was made in response to a question as to what policy he expected the U. S. to adopt towards Russia in view of the American-Japanese rivalry in the Pacific.

TROTSKY REGNANT. Trotsky, who is one of the dominant powers in the Soviet government, today outlined his views on international issues and certain phases of the military and economic situation within Russia.

He promised "many surprises by the Russian Red army."

Minister Trotsky, in referring to President Wilson, said:

"I think the policies of President Wilson are not the cleverest; in the history of the great trans-Atlantic republic."

AS TO U. S. POLICY. As to the policy of the United States toward Bolshevism, Minister Trotsky said:

"I may venture a brief statement, although Comrade Tchitcherin, the commissaire for foreign affairs, could answer questions more fully, having greater knowledge of the subject."

"In our world policies, we have avoided national prejudices, chauvinistic sympathies and antipathies. We have no prejudices against a yellow skin nor have we any blind sympathy with the white race."

KEEP EYE ON WORLD. "We keep an attentive eye upon the developments of all antagonisms throughout the whole world. We are aware that a tremendous antagonism is growing up around the Pacific. Our attitude regarding the antagonistic Pacific will be wholly determined by the policies of the U. S. and Japan towards Russia."

"We have repeatedly demonstrated by our acts that we are only on an equal with bourgeois governments, but we are able to do business with them on a broad scale."

FORECASTS MILITARY RESULT. The war minister was asked to forecast the military result on the Western (Polish) front. He replied:

"Regarding the army and our present and potential strength I can say this: The army is bound to bring many surprises in the future as it has in the past."

Superficial observers were astounded at our successes and were unable to explain them when we were advancing on the Polish front. Our retreat from Warsaw threw them to the other extreme."

STILL BUILDING ARMY. "Our army was built and is still being built at the front. In the midst of battles we are always studying our enemies and adjusting our movements to the needs of the moment. We are always improving new formations and tempering them in the fire of battle."

"Conditions on the northeastern and southwestern fronts are fundamentally different. On both of these fronts we made serious retreats after initial successes. This could be interpreted as evidence of insufficient persistence. Actually it is the result of the fact that we had to create armies in the process of the struggle while laboring with millions to convince them that there was no other way out except fighting."

"While we threw forward divisions which reached Warsaw we worked incessantly in the rear on the formation of the new forces far exceeding in numbers those that retired from Warsaw."

"We were compelled to mobilize industry at a time when the need of industry for the country was a serious problem."

"Before the forces of Admiral Kolchak we retreated to the Volga river. Behind us we formed up back to the Goral district. On the front where we opposed the army of Gen. Yudenich we retreated almost to the walls of Petrograd. But with another wave our armies swept back or destroyed these enemies. We did not study the method of our enemies. We believe that our next blow on the front where we have retreated, will be more decisive than our first."
